MGMT 201 - CREATING INCLUSIVE CAPITALISM IN CHICAGO
Chicago is confronted with a confluence of factors ranging from environmental degradation, widespread poverty, and the need for renewable sources of energy. This course explores important trends in the private and social sectors, which are creating space for creativity and opportunities for individuals with business skills to drive positive change. Students will visit and volunteer at innovative businesses that are transforming the Chicago landscape through novel strategies that incorporate sustainability and social impact. Through lectures, case discussions, guest speakers, and a course-long project, each week this course will examine and critically evaluate contemporary trends in Chicago social entrepreneurship with respect to environmental protection, community/economic development and consumer welfare. Using the realm of sustainable business practices, this course addresses related issues of incorporating social values into business objectives, social responsibility and the need to meet triple bottom lines relating to people, planet, and profit.
