

MASTERS CONCENTRATIONS

Concentrations that reflect the interdisciplinary nature of 21st-century music careers are available for students enrolled in, and on track to complete the requirements for, the Master of Music degree. Concentrations enable graduate students to take additional coursework devoted to specific career interests, broaden professional networks before graduation, and cultivate a more relevant resume for further graduate study and/or job opportunities. More broadly speaking, Concentrations have the potential to formally cultivate the pursuit of an artistically diverse and multi-faceted music career.

Students may pursue concentrations in Arts Administration or Music History/Theory and will take 9 additional credits beyond the requirements for the MM degree. For most degree plans, Concentration requirements can be completed during the two-year residency of the MM degree, within the normal course load if the concentration is declared by the beginning of the second semester. Concentrations, however, can also be completed with an additional semester or through the summer. Individual mentoring by a faculty member in the student's area of interest is a fundamental feature of the concentration option.

Concentrations are available only to students currently enrolled in—and on track to complete—the MM degree program.

A student must earn a GPA of at least 3.0 within the courses required for each distinct concentration area.
